

Features of Sentences

The fire burned brightly and
then the princess disappeared!

Capital Letter

These are used at the start of a new sentence, for names and places, and for I.

Noun

A person, object or animal: garage, Henry, leopard, sofa.

Verb

An action or doing word (which can be present, past or future): trudged, is/was/were, dozes, chuckling.

Adverb

A word that modifies a verb, adjective or another adverb that describes time, place or cause: anxiously, soon, therefore.

Co-ordinating Conjunction

A word that joins two sentences- this is called co-ordination: for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so.

Exclamation Mark

These are used to show surprise, emphasis, strength or shouting.

Features of Sentences

The little, brown dog barked
excitedly at the lady's postman.

Capital Letter

These are used at the start of a new sentence, for names and places, and for I.

Adjective

A word which describes a noun: tall, green, blonde, grumpy.

Noun

A person, object or animal: garage, Henry, leopard, sofa.

Verb

An action or doing word (which can be present, past or future): trudged, is/was/were, dozes, chuckling.

Adverb

A word that modifies a verb, adjective or another adverb that describes time, place or cause: anxiously, soon, therefore.

Apostrophe Word

Apostrophes are used when letters are missing from words (it's, I've, can't) or to show something belongs to somebody: Katie's, the man's, a horse's.

Compound Word

Two smaller words put together to form a longer word: cupboard, greenhouse, windmill.